Incident Detail

Demonstration note: this report uses fictional names, dates, references and vehicle details. The address and map show the GMS office solely as an example; the scenario did not occur there. CCTV illustrations have been edited for this public sample. Photographs demonstrate report presentation and do not depict the mapped office.

Initial activation: perimeter detection was reviewed by the control team. Torchlight was observed beyond the boundary, followed by a further activation. A mobile officer was dispatched and police attendance requested.

Attendance and observations: on arrival, the officer observed people leaving the site boundary. A silver hatchback was subsequently seen departing. The demonstration registration A1 GMS was recorded with the incident and passed to attending police.

Site inspection and action: damage was found at a pedestrian gate and at a fence junction. The officer secured both openings using temporary fixings. The equipment enclosure was also checked for signs of interference. Permanent repairs were recommended for the client's follow-up.

Handover and completion: police attended and received the observations and vehicle information. A later vehicle sighting was relayed to the control team for onward communication. The officer completed a final boundary check and submitted the report before clearing the site.
